ANTH 495/595 FALL 2017

AN ANTHROPOLOGY OF MIGRATION:
The Borderlands of the American Southwest and the Mexican North

WHO: Upper-division under-graduates students and first year graduate students
Strong Spanish language skill recommended

WHAT: An experience-oriented seminar that allows students to explore and engage with a range of issues with regard to migration and the border in communities on both sides of the Arizona-Sonora divide. Fall semester 2017 we will focus topically on security and militarization of the border and borderlands. This class is coordinated with JOUR/LAS 473/573. Most students take both classes to earn 6 credits.

WHERE: Most weeks in Nogales, Arizona and crossing frequently in Sonora, Mexico
Some weeks at UA in Tucson for guest lecturers. Transportation is provided.

WHEN: Mondays – When in Nogales we leave UA at 8am and return by 4pm
When at UA class time will be 9-11:30am

WHY: To understand the current situation of migration locally by drawing on anthropological concepts with an emphasis on critical thinking and ethical practices.
