ONLINE SUMMER CLASS
ANTH 303
Gender and Language
13 July - 12 August 2020

Gender is deeply embedded in our beliefs, ideas, actions and institutions and impacts how we think, feel and act in the world. In this course you will learn about the relationship between language and gender as socially constructed phenomena. You will explore a broad range of interdisciplinary literature on language and gender and critically analyze the relationship between language and gender.

Instructor: Nese Kaya Özkan
neschaya@email.arizona.edu