

School of Anthropology (SoA) at the University of Arizona

UNIVERSITY OF ARIZONA ANTHROPOLOGY

Centennial Celebration: 1915 - 2015

Sociocultural Anthropology

Large Scale Violence and Communities

Medical Anthropology- Tobacco Control

Islam and Secularism

Political Ecology of Ranching

Biological Anthropology

Primate Behavior, Ecology, Hormones
Cooperation, Sexuality Conservation

Endemic Violence and Population Health
Human Biology
Embodied Inequality

Cognitive Evolution, Domestication
Human-Animal Interactions

Physiology & Health, Energetics
Locomotion & Running, Paleontology

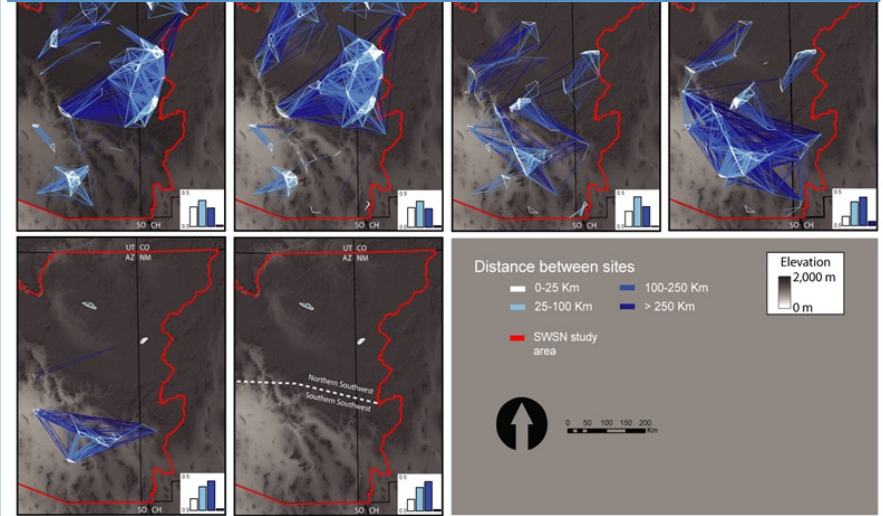

Archaeology

Ceibal , Guatemala

Southwestern Pottery and Social Networks

Mt Lykaion Excavation and Survey, Greece

Linguistic Anthropology

Linguistic and Cultural Practices

Community Involvement

Schooling and Language

Linguistic Elicitation

Bureau of Applied Research in Anthropology (BARA)

Offshore Oil Extraction, Gulf of Mexico

Mass Migration and Environmental Change, Ambos Nogales, Arizona and Sonora

Sea-Level Rise in Bangladesh

Traditional Cultural Properties on Public Lands, , Blackfeet Tribe, Montana

Majoring in Anthropology

B.A. in ANTHROPOLOGY

B.S. in ANTHROPOLOGY
on Human Biology

B.S. in ANTHROPOLOGY
on Archaeological Sciences

Explore the Anthropology Major

- Sandra Holm, Senior Advisor
(sholm@email.arizona.edu)
- Matthew J. Rowe, Director of Undergraduate Studies
(majrowe@email.arizona.edu)

Explore a Double Major

Anthropology Majors often double-major in several related fields
(e.g., Molecular and Cellular Biology, Nursing, Linguistics, History, Classics)

If you complete two majors concurrently (even if different degrees, e.g. BS/BA) you only need to complete 120 units. Contact your advisor for more information.