

UA School of Anthropology
at the
Tucson Festival of Books

The School of Anthropology will once again have a very strong presence at the Tucson Festival of Books! Here are the details:

- ❖ Saturday and Sunday, March 11–12, 9:30 a.m.–5:30 p.m., Science City: The School and the Bureau of Applied Research in Anthropology will have a space in Science City in the Science of Food area.
- ❖ Saturday, March 11, 10:00 a.m., SBS Pavilion*: Associate Professor Jennifer Roth-Gordon will participate on a panel titled “A Conversation on Segregated Spaces” with authors Jeff Chang and Reginald Dwayne Betts and SBS faculty author Tyina Steptoe (History). Dr. Roth-Gordon will speak about her book Race and the Brazilian Body: Blackness, Whiteness, and Everyday Language in Rio de Janeiro.
- ❖ Sunday, March 12, 11:30 a.m., SBS Pavilion*: Professor Maribel Álvarez will also appear in conversation with author Jeff Chang on Sunday, March 12 at 11:30 a.m. in the SBS Pavilion. The two will discuss Chang’s latest work, We Gon’ Be Alright.
- ❖ Sunday, March 12, 4:00 p.m., SBS Pavilion*: Robin Reineke (Ph.D. Arizona, 2016) will serve on a panel moderated by Dr. Maribel Álvarez titled “Migrant deaths in the desert.”

The 2017 Tucson Festival of Books will take place on the University of Arizona campus on Saturday, March 11 and Sunday, March 12 from 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

**The SBS Pavilion is located between the UA BookStore and the Food Court.*

